

Today, many individuals are being put into a management role OR looking to make decisions for upper management. CEU Plan has developed a unique series of courses to help you better understand how to be a great manager. How to solve those personnel issues, how to delegate responsibility, how to be pro-active in a crisis or emergency situation – all these can prove a real challenge in today's workplace. You may have a need to better understand City Hall and its functions, as well as your own regulatory agencies. This is all part of meaningful training in management. The current wave of retiring utility directors and managers will create the largest void since the 1970's, with the implementation of the Clean Water Act, which means that many positions will need to be filled. In the following weeks or months you may be considered for or become a candidate for a manager's position, so NOW is the time to prepare.

Years ago, I received a financial reward and wondered what to do with it. My parents had always taught me to "live within your means," so I was concerned about doing the right thing with this windfall. I inquired of my accountant, who advised me that I should reinvest in myself. His words have remained with me ever since. He said, "A great investment is to invest in yourself. On a sincere note, investing in yourself is something NO ONE can take away from you!

Finally, an investment in our education can lead us to success, to increasing our net worth, our value to our families and to our jobs, and to our personal life -- to good, clean living and a positive state of mind, believing in ourselves and blessed with what we have.

A Great Investment is an Investment in Yourself!
